1,100 RAF PLANES HIT NAZI RAIL YARDS

RUSSIANS BEAT BACK 2 HEAVY NAZI ATTACKS

Germans Attempt To Smash Red Lines at Both Ends of Front.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 21 — Powerful German tank and infantry attacks have been beaten back by the Red Army near the Estonian border town of Narva and at the foot of the Carpathians more than 300 miles to the south, a Soviet communique announced today.

The German blows on the Baltic front, which had been quiet for six weeks, were directed against the Russian brideghead on the west bank of the Narova river southeast of Narva.

"The Hitlerites appeared to hope to smash our defenses in one blow, but they miscalculated," the bulletin said. More than 2,000 Germans officially were reported left dead on the battlefield and many more slain in repeated attacks.

Furious Nazi Attacks Halted

The German-Hungarian counteroffensive at the foot of the Carpathians spread yesterday from the east of Stanislawow to the south, where the Red army was credited with hurling back furious attacks.

At least 2,300 axis troops were killed, the communique said, but the Germans continued to exert relentless pressure on our positions from two sides" and violent engagements went on throughout the day."

Grim battles were reported smashing in full swing at the outskirts of besieged Sevastopol, and dispatches said thousands of Germans and Romanians drowned in the Black sea as Soviet bombers and torpedo planes kept up hourly attacks against convoys seeking to reach Romanian ports.

The Russians said bombers attacked two convoys Monday night, sinking a 3,000-ton transport and another of 2,000 tons, and the following day swooped on two more convoys, sinking a 5,000-ton transport and numerous smaller ships and barges. Axis troops jamming the Sevastopol docks were being pounded by Russian artillery commanding nearby heights.

Use Allied Equipment

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Henry C. Cassidy in Odessa quoted Rear Adm. Sergei Federovich Beiuzov, commandant at that base, as saying American and British equipment, particularly planes, was being used by the Black sea fleet.

Southwest of Tarnopol in the western Ukraine minor battles of local importance were reported yesterday, with the Russians capturing several villages, taking prisoners and destroying about a battalion of German infantry.

The Soviet air force carried out attacks against railroad junctions in Latvia and a peat factory in Estonia.

DEBUT IN SOCIETY. One of the "Sons of Heaven," captured in the Admiralty islands, bows humbly to two American officers, an incident which probably would make the war lords in Tokyo very, very mad. The American officers are Col. Earl F. Thomson of Lake James, Ind., left, and Maj. Richard H. Wright of Alice, Tex. (International)

MRS. LUCE SEES G.O.P. VICTORY

Congresswoman Predicts Republican Victory at Polls in November.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 21 — Clare Booth Luce, the Connecticut Republican congresswoman, today said it would be "impossible for President Roosevelt to govern this country even if he were re-elected next fall."

She told a press conference the next congress would be "overwhelmingly Republican" and that many persons who normally would vote for Mr. Roosevelt would, instead, vote Republican to prevent a "stalemate that would result from a Demomratic president and a Republican congress."

Mrs. Luce came here to address the spring convention of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women.

The congresswoman remarked that Gov. Earl Warren of California, keynoter for the party convention in June, was a "very fresh breath of air."

"He will bring in the west and give it the attention it deserves and hasn't had from the present administration," she said.

Sees Victory for G.O.P.

A reporter asked what she thought of Gov. Bricker's chances for the Republican presidential nomination. Mrs. Luce replied she had no idea who might be nominated, but that if the Ohio governor were chosen he "certainly would be elected." Mrs. Bricker, who returned with her husband from a west coast tour only last night, sat by the congresswoman through the conference.

Mrs. Luce said she was working on a plan to provide frequent furloughs for soldiers who have gone through combat, and would present it in the house shortly.

"It will be disastrous for the families if some of the boys who have been overseas for two or three years do not get home soon," she said.

The congresswoman at first evaded a question whether she desired a woman cabinet member in any Republican administration.

"I do not approve of a woman named Perkins in the present cabinet," she asserted.

Favors Woman in Cabinet

Later, she said she definitely felt a woman should be included in any Republican cabinet.

In discussing the administration's foreign policy, Mrs. Luce said the state department "did not act, it reacted," to foreign events.

"We assert our leadership nowhere," she asserted. "The leadership in Europe is being conducted by the British and the Russians. I would like to see us lead for a change."

Mrs. Luce was attired in a severely tailored gray suit with which she wore a sheer white blouse. A lacy jabot cascaded down the front of the blouse and matching cuffs extended beyond the sleeves of her jacket and reached almost to the scarlet tips of her fingernails. Her reddish-blonde hair was swept back from her ears into a long page-boy bob. A perky black straw sailor hat, black patent leather shoes

TO CUT LAMB RATIONS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21—Representative Fisher (D-Tex) said today he was informed OPA would cut the ration-point value of mutton approximately in half, effective May 2, on a nationwide basis. Such a reduction already is in effect on young lamb in California.

14,000 IDLE IN FORD CANADIAN PLANT

By The Associated Press

WINDSOR, Ont., April 21 — Picket lines ringed the huge Ford Motor company of Canada plant here today and plant operations were at a standstill, with about 14,000 employes affected.

The work stoppage started yesterday when day-shift workers left their jobs at 11 a. m. for a half holiday" in a protest over grievance procedure.

A little later the company notified the union—local 200 of the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO) — that it was terminating the collective bargaining agreement in effect here since Jan. 15, 1942.

The company said the "general strike" was a breach of that contract.

Ford's president, Wallace R. Campbell, asked police to break up the picket lines, calling the "strike" illegal, but police said no additional officers would be sent to the plant until "the strike has been proven illegal."

Marion County Over the Top in Red Cross War Fund Drive

Marion county went over the top today in its $56,000 Red Cross war fund campaign.

The fact that 21 extra days were required to reach the figure was almost forgotten in the satisfaction of the drive leaders when they were able to announce that Marion county has done its full part in the nationwide drive. The exact final figure will not be computed until a checkup has been completed in the next few days.

A "give again" appeal that brought hundreds of dollars from persons who had already met their individual drive quotas and the work of a committee headed by Chris Turoff, making second calls on business places and large individual donors, were among the special activities that turned the trick after the regular drive period ended April 1 with approximately $5,000 yet to be raised.

J. D. Torrance, drive chairman, today voiced his thanks and that of the entire Red Cross chapter to the thousands of Marion county residents who have contributed to the fund.

"Our quota of $56,000 was a sizable amount and it could not have been raised had it not been for the vast majority of homes, businesses and corporations giving generously," he said.

"Marion county can now justly feel proud that it has reached this quota and by this action we have done our part for our boys who are representing us on the battlefields.

"This drive could not have been a success had it not been for the willingness on the part of 600 people in Marion county who generously gave of their time in soliciting. We are sorry that we are unable to thank all of the workers personally. The ladies' division, headed by Mrs. C. W. Smoot, raised over five times as much in home solicitations this year as last year. This was an outstanding accomplishment. The contributions received from the citizens of Marion county outside the city of Marion who comprise the county and villages played a big part in making this a success. Eugene B. Willey and his many workers brought into this fund approximately $10,000.

"We are especially indebted to Chris Turoff and his clean-up committee for going to work after the last $5,000. These men really came to bat in the last phases of the campaign to insure its success.

"To our boys and girls of Marion schools who voluntarily gave during the last week over $400 we surely want to express our sincere appreciation. This amount materially helped when we needed it most.

"To every worker who played a part in the solicitation of funds, to everyone who aided in the management of the campaign and to all of the ladies who worked at headquarters under the supervision of Miss Esther Guthery we want to say 'thank you' very much for all that you have done."

CHURCHILL GUARDS RIGHTS OF EMPIRE

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 21 — Prime Minister Churchill told commons today the British-American mutual assistance agreement was reached in 1942 with assurance from President Roosevelt that "we were no more committed to abolition of imperial preference than the American government was committed to abolition of their protective tariff."

Winding up the empire debate in commons, Churchill said:

"At my first meeting with the President of the United Staes in Newfoundland at the time of the so-called Atlantic charter, and before the United States had entered the war—a meeting on very anxious and critical matters—I asked for insertion of the following words in the Atlantic charter which can be read in that document:

"'With due respect for their existing obligations * * *'

"These are the limiting words and they were inserted for the express purpose of retaining to the house and to the dominions the fullest possible rights and liberties over the question of imperial preference.

(Imperial preference means that states belonging to the British empire charge lower import duties on goods coming from other states of the empire than they do on goods arriving from countries outside the empire. Sometimes it means a waiving of duties altogether on empire goods.)

"The agreement for discussing as to how a greater volume of trade and a more harmonious flow of trade can be created in the immediate post-war years leaves us in every respect, so far as action is concerned, perfectly free," Churchill said.

BRICKER ENDS WESTERN TRIP

Governor Well Satisfied with Results of Campaign for G.O.P. Nomination.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 21—Gov. Bricker, appearing rested and in the best of spirits, came back to his office today after a 10-day presidential campaign swing down the west coast and remarked he was well satisfied with the trip.

He would not discuss the matter of delegates he thought he might have picked up for the Republican convention in Chicago in June, but Robert L. Barton, Bricker secretary, said he felt sure the governor had won some voting strength. He would not say where.

"We had fine crowds and friendly reaction everywhere," Bricker told his press conference. "I'm very well satisfied with the results of the trip."

He was asked his opinion on the selection of Gov. Earl Warren of California to keynote the convention.

"I approve heartily of his selection," Bricker said. "He's an outstanding executive and will very ably represent the governors of the 26 Republican states."

Would Warren's selection have any effect on his possible place on the national ticket, a newsman asked.

"I don't think his selection will change that situation one bit," Bricker responded.

He was told that some persons in the east were predicting the convention would resolve either to a Dewey-Bricker or Dewey-Warren ticket.

"Any reports of that kind are mere rumor and speculation in which I am not interested," the governor said.

Barton said he was impressed by editorials in west coast newspapers.

"Their general theme," he said, "was that Bricker is a forthright candidate with the courage to give his views on the issues of the day.

"Responses to our trip was very good."

Bricker will address the spring meeting of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs tonight, and then leave Sunday for New York where, on Tuesday, he will deliver a major address on international relations. It will be given before the Ohio Society of New York.

Bricker returned from the west by special plane last night. Arriving with him were Mrs. Bricker, Barton, Mrs. Barton, and Mrs. Roy Moore, of Canton, wife of Bricker's campaign manager.

LARGE SCALE BATTLE FLARES AGAIN IN CHINA

New Jap Drive as Attack on Imphal Appears To Be Near Stalemate.

The first large-scale fighting in China since the "rice bowl" battle last fall has flared up in northern Honan province where powerful Japanese forces are attempting to drive Chinese troops from their stranglehold on a 150-mile segment of the important Peiping-Hankow railroad.

Chinese sources today estimated 50,000 and 60,000 Nipponese troops, some of them brought in from Manchuria, are being hurled into the fray. Another enemy column has fought its way to within six miles of China's east-west Lunghai railway also in northern Honan province.

Stalemate in India

The new Japanese offensive in China comes when the Nipponese invasion into India threatens to reach a stalemate.

With only a few weeks remaining before the torrential monsoon season sets in, the Japanese drive has been dulled to such an extent that British troops have relieved the besieged base of Kohima, farthest penetration of the Indian offensive according to Allied reports, and have initiated a strong counter-offensive around Imphal, 60 miles to the south.

The enemy was reported by Allied commanders to be sending reinforcements into the Kohima sector in a pre-monsoon attempt to cut the Bengal-Assam railroad 35 miles to the north and thereby choke off supplies reaching Allied forces attempting to carve a new land supply route to China.

Islands Hammered from Air

Along Japan's Pacific outposts, Allied air power continued its hammering, featured by the third consecutive daily attack on Wotal island in the western Caroline islands and the important Satawan airstrip 150 miles southeast of Truk in the eastern Carolines.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz told of a 48-ton attack on Truk Wednesday, the 25th blow there since Truk was hit for the first time Feb. 16. Other central Pacific planes pounded Ponape, east of Truk, Wake Island and four bypassed enemy bases in the Marshals.

PRE-SCHOOL HEALTH EXAMINATIONS SET

To Start in County Schools on Monday.

The pre-school conference in the rural schools for the physical examination of pupils entering school next fall, will begin Monday. The conferences are sponsored by interested groups in the community. Each school will be represented by its superintendent, its first grade teacher, D. T. Mills, county superintendent of schools, Mrs. Hootman, attendance officer, Dr. N. Sifritt, health commissioner and one county nurse. A local physician, dentist and a lay committee in each community have been invited to participate.

Every child who will enter school next fall is invited to attend the conference. Parents are to accompany their child.

The purpose of the conference is to acquaint the child with his school and to see that he is in the best state of health for his school career. Each child who enters school has a school health record. A medical doctor and dentist of that community gives the child a complete examination. This includes the examination of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, teeth, glands of the throat, heart, lungs,

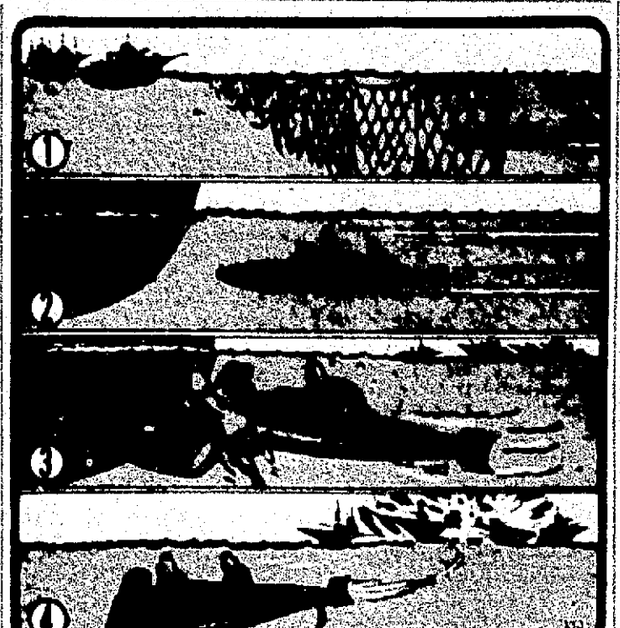
WASTE FATS STILL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21—



HOW HUMAN TORPEDOES STRIKE. They seem to have dropped from the pages of Jules Verne, but very real indeed are Neptune's fearless sea-going rough riders, who straddle a torpedo as a cowboy straddles a broncho and ride it to its destination. And here, in a series of sketches, is the story of what the British daredevils do and how they do it. The human torpedoes are sufficiently small to penetrate the enemy's net defenses, and did just that (1) when they sneaked under water in the harbor of Palermo to blow up a transport. They approach the ship's hull (2) after diving under the water. The two-man crews fix the warheads (3) of their torpedoes to the bottom of the boat and set time fuses. Then they slip away again on their electrically driven cylinders (4) which are now minus the "heads" as the ship blows up.

Play Written by Miss Foreman Presented by Harding Seniors

Performance of "Summer at the Seagull" at Palace Climaxes 25 Years as High School Dramatics Director.

By EDNA S. DUTTON

New laurels were won by Harding High school with presentation of the traditional class play which annually marks the beginning of the end of high school days for the senior class, last night before a capacity audience in the Palace theater.

Last night's performance was an "All Harding" production, as it not only was presented by the senior class of 1944 but was written by and produced under the direction of Miss Lucile Foreman, instructor in journalism and dramatic coach at Harding High school. The play, a three-act comedy, was titled "Summer at the Seagull," ted under Miss Foreman's pen name of "Sally Harrison."

The occasion was memorable, also, in that it marked Miss Foreman's twenty-fifth year of directing high school plays and brings to a climax her work in directing senior class productions. This work Miss Foreman expects to pass on to Miss Eloise Coffman, junior play coach, and a former pupil of Miss Foreman. With the exception of one, her first year in the profession when she was a member of the Green Camp school faculty, all the plays directed by Miss Foreman were by Harding High school seniors.

Last night's audience of more than 1,000 was unaware that it was witnessing the premier of the work of a Marion playwright, as the all-star cast of seniors unfolded the story of a summer at a New England theater colony, its laughs, loves and tears.

Revealed in Booklet

At a reception in honor of Miss Foreman, given by the high school faculty in the domestic science room of Harding High school following the play, tiny booklets, presented as favors, disclosed the identity of "Sally Harrison." In adopting this as her pen name Miss Foreman used the name of her maternal grandmother.

The play was a challenge to the cast of 25 young men and women who gave a splendid account of themselves, reflected no small amount of credit on the directors and kept the audience in suspense as to the outcome, throughout the entire performance. Adding to the success of the performance in no small way was the work of the production staff, costumers, stage designers, and individuals and school groups who assisted throughout the rehearsals and for the final production.

TAFT OUTLINES G.O.P. PROGRAM

Republicans To Develop Broad and Affirmative Legislative Policy.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21 — Broad plans to develop a coordinated and "affirmative" Republican legislative policy, embracing post-war as well as current issues before congress, were outlined today by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the senate G.O.P. steering committee.

Taft announced George H. E. Smith, former Yale university faculty member and associate of historian Charles A. Beard, will act as special research consultant to help devise a unified program on such issues as foreign policy, post-war aviation, administrative reorganization and taxes.

"We hope through him to coordinate the entire legislative program by the minority members," Taft wrote in a letter to Republican senators.

"I do not need to dwell upon the importance of prompt and considered action on the matters immediately before congress, but the steering committee has felt that it is even more important that Republicans who have affirmative views on post-war policy, formulate those views into definite programs and present them for consideration at this time.

"That does not mean that the Republican conference as a whole will back any particular measure or any particular program, but we think we should assist individual senators in formulating constructive suggestions from which an affirmative Republican program can be drawn in this and the next session of congress."

Taft said Republican senators would be called into a conference late next week, or early in May, to consider further the party program.

Major legislation on which a party policy might be formulated was listed by Taft as including a post-war program, embracing tax policy and post-war budget; relaxation of "unnecessary regulation" after the war; agriculture; labor; post-war aviation; housing, public works and small business financing; social security; reorganization and coalition of bureaus and departments, repeal of war legislation and foreign policy.

Taft explained that Smith was being named to a post which congress authorized several years ago, but which never was filled by the late Minority Leader McNary of Oregon.

BODY FOUND IN CAR

By The Associated Press

LANCASTER, O., April 21 — The charred body of Harry Echard, 37, Lancaster labor leader, was discovered yesterday afternoon in his fire-damaged automobile on a country road southeast of here, Coroner J. D. Dupler said Echard apparently had suffocated. He was an official of the American Federation of Glass Workers. Sheriff Dudley Crider said the motor of Echard's car apparently stalled as he was driving up a grade, then the automobile coasted backward, crashed into an embankment and caught fire.

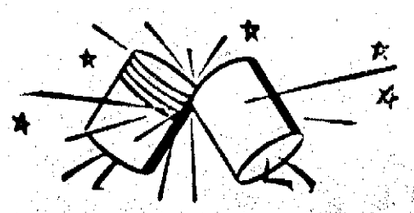
SWITCH TO V.E.P. ALLOYED-OIL TODAY...INSTEAD OF TOMORROW
...SAVE AN EXTRA 200 MILES WEAR

Avoid "Start-Up" damage...it can put up to 200 miles of unnecessary wear on your motor...in one minute...every time you start!

YOU'D THINK A NICE REST would be good for your motor. It isn't. For that gives ordinary oil a chance to drain down from (and dry off of) piston and cylinder walls, leaving them dangerously "dry" next time you start up.



WITH NO PROTECTIVE FILM to act as a buffer, you get metal-to-metal contact before the oil gets back on the job. Experts say this can put as much wear on the motor in one minute, as up to 200 miles of normal warmed-up driving.

PARTS ARE SCARCE, garages weeks behind on repairs. So don't ask for trouble with unnecessary "Start-Up" damage. Change to V.E.P. Alloyed-Oil, now...save your first 200 miles today, instead of tomorrow.

V.E.P. ALLOYED-OIL marries itself to the motor. Its "magnetic-like" action makes it cling to pistons and cylinder walls for weeks at a time...gives positive protection at the critical "start-up" minutes and after. V.E.P. actually makes motors last 50% longer than they would with ordinary oil.

Majority in Poll Favor Pay Boost for Men at Front

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., April 21—Newspaper Columnist Ernie Pyle's contention that foot soldiers ought to have their pay raised when they are at the fighting fronts meets with the approval of the vast majority of the American people.

Bills embodying such a proposal are being sponsored in the House of Representatives by Representative Samuel Weiss and in the Senate by Senator Charles W. Tobey.

A survey of public opinion across the nation on the issue discloses that seven out of every ten voters think service men who are in combat should be upped 50 per cent in pay.

What makes the vote more significant is that a majority—three out of five—say they are willing to pay increased taxes necessary to meet the costs of the pay boosts.

Overseas soldiers in or out of combat already get ten per cent above base pay, and paratroopers and some specialists also get extra pay.

The question asked of a carefully selected cross-section of voters in every state was this:

"It has been suggested that American service men who take part in actual fighting should get a 50 per cent increase in pay. Should Congress pass such a law?"

HOUSE MAPS PLAN TO UTILIZE 4-FS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21—Complaining of "a conspicuous absence" of planned effort to direct qualified 4-Fs into essential work, the house military committee recommended yesterday that men rejected for full military service be inducted for non-combat duty if they fail to seek essential war work.

The committee approved a recommendation of a special subcommittee headed by Representative Costello (D-Calif.) that no new legislation be enacted at this time dealing with the 3,500,000 men in class 4-F—rejected for service because of disabilities Existing law, the committee said, provides ample authority for handling such men through administrative procedure.

The committee made these specific recommendations:

That selective service reclassify 4-Fs into groups doing essential work and those not in essential jobs.

That selective service and the war manpower commission publish a list of occupations which would entitle a 4-F to be reclassified into 2-AF or 2-BF (occupational deferment.)

That 4-Fs in approved jobs notify their local draft boards and receive a certificate of approval before changing jobs

That 4-Fs not in approved jobs notify their draft boards of willingness to take such jobs

That failure of registrant to notify his draft board of willingness to do essential work shall subject him to induction.

That men refusing to take essential work, when it is available, be inducted immediately for assignment to non-combat duty, and not be charged against the combat strength of the Army and the Navy.

Rainy Day Troubles

Every time it rains it seems that umbrellas and rubbers are at the other end of the line. Just as sure as you wear your overshoes home from the office in the rain today, you won't need them when you start back tomorrow. Two solutions may be used. You either tote the rainy equipment back and forth each night or you scrape up enough collateral to have a set at each end.

Here at Last

Well, all signs point to fairer weather. First there were robins, next came a few flies then someone reported bees were buzzing around the pussy willows and now it seems ants have come out of their hibernation. Kids have unearthed roller skates and youngsters are playing out now in sweaters that are short in spots, resulting from the owner's extra growth during the winter. Other clothes are decidedly baggy and flap in the wrong places due to so many 1943 washings. Industrious wives are hard at spring cleaning and husbands are thinking of golf. Ball games are already in progress and fewer fur coats are seen. Final sign, if it can be used as a measuring stick, is the decidedly lazy feeling that some honest people confess to having. Yes sir, it looks as if spring is here.

Learns Turk Attitude On War

By FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Correspondent

ANKARA, April 21—"If Turkey entered the war without being attacked it would be the most immoral thing a nation ever did."

That was the key statement in a chance, two-hour talk I had recently with a minor official of the Anatolian town, Kizilcahamam, 55 miles north of Ankara.

This talk was one of the most illuminating I've had during four years in Turkey, because the speaker was pulling no punches, and brushed aside all, or almost all, considerations of high policy which usually burden conversations with Turks in Istanbul and Ankara.

He spoke with eloquence and great good reason, straight from the heart of what ordinary men and women of Turkey think and believe. I am completely convinced he sincerely voiced ordinary, uninstructed Anatolian-Turkish public opinion.

This is important, because cosmopolitan Istanbul and Ankara Turks cannot be considered representative of the real public feelings of the other 17,000,000 Turks living in Anatolia.

The conversation brought out three main points:

Absolute conviction that Turkey should not enter the war unless attacked;

Great confidence in the government and readiness to do whatever the government considers necessary.

Almost unbounded admiration for, and faith in, the United States.

"If we don't enter the war the British and Americans probably will be a little angry with us after the war, and we shall suffer from some neglect—perhaps even post-war isolation," he said.

"But if we attacked the Germans, they would have a definite cause for post-war enmity toward us. Who has hurt Turkey enough that the Turks should shoot at them? We are friends of all, and want everyone to be our friends now and in the future, or at least to have no cause for enmity toward us."

The inarticulate peasants nodded assent. I then asked:

"If a lion were lose in Kizilcahamam and a posse came to your door to ask you to help kill it, would you say 'no, my house is not yet being attacked'?"

The official replied:

"No, I'd say I wouldn't help because I had not yet seen the lion."

Behind the oriental deftness of that answer lies a blunt "we are not sure who represents the greatest danger in this war" attitude inspired by inter-allied quarrels over prostrate France, Greece, Poland and Yugoslavia.

In these critical times it's especially important to make your home CLOROX-CLEAN ...for Greater Health Protection!

Infection Dangers Spread Easily

Fewer Civilian Doctors and Nurses

America Must Keep Workers Healthy

HEALTH PROTECTION is more important today than ever due to reduced civilian medical facilities, and the need to keep America's workers on the job for Victory. These are added reasons why health authorities are urging housewives throughout the nation to maintain high standards of home sanitation. Clorox used in routine cleansing makes household "danger zones" hygienically clean.

WHY TAKE CHANCES! "When it's CLOROX-CLEAN it's hygienically clean!"

Your Kitchen can be one of the main sources of possible infection unless made hygienically clean. It's easy to combat kitchen germ dangers with Clorox ... it disinfects, deodorizes and removes stains from dishes, glassware, tile, enamel, linoleum, wood surfaces. Clorox also bleaches and removes stains from dishcloths ... makes them fresh-smelling, sanitary.

Gov. Warren of California

SELECTION of Gov. Warren of California to make the keynote address to the Republican national convention will introduce to the country at large one of the party's well balanced political figures. It is a paradox that while nearly everybody who keeps track of what is going on knows California's Gov. Warren, the man behind the name is virtually a stranger.

He was 53 years old on his last birthday, March 19, and the father of six fine looking children, three boys and three girls. He was admitted to the California bar in 1914, but his law career was interrupted by the World war, in which he served as a lieutenant and a captain, holding a reserve commission until 1936. On his return to civilian life, he quickly got into public service and by 1925 had become Almeda county district attorney. His highest public office before becoming governor was that of attorney general.

His public service, however, has not been confined to elective offices. He has been interested in police training, criminal identification and investigation and general research in public administration. He has held a number of high offices in legal organizations and has been active in fraternal organizations. His knowledge of public affairs has been disseminated widely in various articles published in magazines. Though born in Los Angeles, he began the practice of law in Oakland and still calls Oakland his home. Of the many party members qualified to talk to the Republican convention as keynoter, Gov. Warren perhaps comes closest to exemplifying the type of administrator which is the party's strongest talking point in its bid for national responsibility.

Hitlerites in Reverse

THERE seems no possibility of a protracted siege of Sevastopol. Hitler's fighters will not buy the bloody badge of courage the Russian defenders of the city bought in 1942 when they defended Sevastopol for more than eight months in a last-ditch battle they knew they ultimately would lose.

To the Russians, the despised Hitlerites in reverse are merely trespassers trying to get away from the revenge they invited. Their composite character as a warrior nation in retreat is anything but admirable; they have lost not only the war, but their reputation, a circumstance which will have profound effect in the years to come. Germans long have profited among the Russians by the tradition that they are possessors of extraordinary military skill and fighting ability.

Their impending disaster at Sevastopol may foreshadow a similar disaster when the circumstances of defeatism are created on the western front. There, as in Russia, the Germans must decide whether to stand and fight for the sake of fighting, or yield to the more expedient course of flight. It is the job of the Allied command to create the circumstances of German defeatism by an attack of sufficient magnitude to overwhelm prepared defenses and start a retreat. The behavior of Hitler's armies in Russia suggests that once the retreat has been started, the same characteristics will be as dominant on the western front as they are proving to be on the eastern front. As in World war I, the German soldier seems able to do everything surpassingly well, except bear up under adversity.

Rome's Fate

PRESIDENT Roosevelt's reply to the prime minister of Eire, that "if German forces were not entrenched in Rome no question would arise concerning the city's preservation" is not a comprehensive statement. If the Allies were entrenched in Rome, instead of the Germans, there would be an even greater question of the city's preservation than there is now. To argue that the Allies would not be entrenched in Rome, as the Germans are, is of course to ignore the real issue. Rome is of prime military importance to the Germans, and it would be of prime military importance to the Allies, if they held it. The Germans are talking about its preservation because they are in occupation; if the city was on the other foot, they would be in the same awkward position as the Allies.

Rome's fate is not sealed. The Allies, it is certain, are open to reason. Even if military expediency keeps the Germans from abandoning Rome, as it probably will, there will be no indiscriminate bombing. There has been none to date. Railroad yards and warehouses are not cultural monuments, however, and they will be destroyed. Air fields will be bombed. There will be, no doubt, incidental and accidental damage to priceless buildings, but it will not be intentional. The object is not to terrorize Rome, but to reduce its value to the Germans as a military base. If and when the Germans leave the city and it is occupied by the Allies, it will then remain to be seen whether the invaders from beyond the Alps are as interested in its welfare as the Allies are trying to be.

Young people must be helped to participate in democracy and identify it as such. They should learn that a democratic society is good for them and democratic experience is satisfying.—Ardway Tead, chairman New York board of higher education.

News Behind the News

Dewey Touches on Matter of Growing Public Importance—Mental Health.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 21—New York's Governor Dewey mentioned, in his radio report on his state administration, a subject seldom in the news but certainly very close behind much of it—mental health.

I believe it is a favorite subject of his (much like Mr. Roosevelt's personal interest in reforestation), and will assume a similar prominence in any campaign he develops for the presidency. At least, he is beginning to give some prominence to it in political discussion.

The truth is nearly half the men now being discharged from the Army for illness are officially designated psychoneurotics. The surgeon general's office has announced 25,000 to 30,000 men are being let out for physical disability each month, and, of these, 40 per cent are classified P-NS.

A competent authority says not a man has been discharged from the Russian army for that reason. Why is this?

Old Fogey

The first old-fogey notion that must be discarded in trying to understand this new subject is the foolish popular suspicion that psychoneurosis means insanity. The Army has a four-paged, single-spaced explanation in medical terms that only doctors understand, or need to. What it boils down to is that the men are not adaptable to military service.

Some parents are being foolishly alarmed when their boys return, labeled with what they think is a scarlet "pan" and they recall the public misuse of such terms as "shell shock," "feebleminded," or even "moronic." This is absurd.

Such parents would be the first to demand that their boys be released from military duty for tuberculosis, heart disease, or any other ailment. The public just does not understand yet that the great variety of nervous or mental ailments have no more awesome significance than ailment of any other part of the body.

Definition

Perhaps the best generalized definition for the public would be that psychoneurosis is a nervous breakdown, although this is not entirely accurate because there are so many degrees and types (anxiety state, conversion hysteria, various depressions, and just plain jitters). Some might call it (not untruthfully) as merely a complete unhappiness, based on resentfulness or insecurity, to the extent of inadaptability to the Army norm.

Even so, why is this? Why are so many unfit to meet Army requirements? Why has the spread of this same condition among civilians grown to such an extent that Governor Dewey has revised his entire mental health set-up in New York? What does it mean for the post-war future?

I have been collecting answers from authorities, but without so far getting a complete one. The most interesting contribution to my own thought on the subject has been furnished by a non-medical man, an eminent professor of psychology in an eastern university. Writing primarily on another phase of the subject (our system of child education) he concludes:

Analysis

"The child suffers (from our current undisciplinary leadership). He is not prepared to meet life or to meet reality. Most of all he is emotionally immature.

"Our present system retards emotional maturity by prolonging childish habit of self-indulgence (self-expression), of following impulse, or being governed by the pleasure-pain principle to the exclusion of the reality principle.

"Hence we are confronted with a striking inability to assume responsibility, to do a real job, to accept life's burdens.

"This may have much to do with the rise in delinquency and with the high rejection rate from the armed services on mental and emotional grounds. Twenty per cent of casualties returning from overseas are in this category."

He says his name may be used. He is Dr. Frederick H. Lund of Temple university, who can be identified in Who's Who as a man with a distinguished career in mental science.

An Army Nurse at Buna

By Lt. Helen Oakes Chadbourne; A.N.C.

The following description of a Nurse's life in New Guinea was written by 1st Lt. Helen Oakes Chadbourne, of Cambridge and Gloucester, Mass. Lt. Chadbourne, now stationed in Australia, wrote of her experiences during the Buna campaign. She has been overseas since April, 1942.

* * *

THE Japanese were only 40 miles from our hospital and the Buna campaign was at its height. Battle casualties were pouring into surgery. Screeching brakes of the ambulances could be heard as they stopped to discharge the wounded. Heavily laden Army trucks sent forth a constant monotonous roar as they moved slowly over the crude, washboard roads carrying supplies forward.

One reflects that there is no day's end in this war in the midst of torn jungle. There's no glamor either, or luxury. But everyone, everywhere seems inspired with a spirit of duty and a will to do the job.

My first day on duty will long be remembered. Never in my life have I seen such a mass of suffering humanity—and never have I worked harder than in the ward which housed the most serious casualties. There were 10 cots on each side of the tent and in them were soldiers ranking from privates to colonels.

Lt. Catherine Demarais and I worked together, she starting at one end and I at the other. We went down the line, bathing bodies, dressing wounds, administering treatments, assisting with infusions of blood plasma, or saline solutions, and changing beds.

Shortly after 8 o'clock that evening we finished our last patient. The most gratifying part of the day came when a noticeable difference could be seen in the morale of our men. From solemn, drawn faces we began to see flickers of smiles. As the days passed the improvement in their mental as well as physical condition was really thrilling to witness.

More and More Rain.

We had arrived during the rainy season which starts in December and continues through April. The rain would come in torrential downpours two and three times daily. Within a few minutes, dry, dusty earth became a sea of mud with huge streams virtually filling slit trenches six feet deep. It was not uncommon to wade through ward tents in water to the ankles, here and there salvaging a patient's shoe as it was carried away in the "torrent." In a few minutes the water disappeared into the thirsty earth, leaving a smooth black clay that soon turned into deep muddy ruts. As the sun appeared, there was a feeling of intensified oppression and we went about our tasks in an atmosphere of steaming perspiration and never moisture-free clothing.

Most of our bathing and laundry was done by using canvas buckets. A shower was available two hours each day and those two hours were comparable only to Bargain Day in Macy's basement. The water supply was ample, however, after construction of a reservoir.

Most of the first two months we worked 12 and 14 hours daily, seven days a week. Night after night we were up time and again for air raids. Many times we knew fear when Zeroes roared overhead and shrapnel dropped among us.

Trying Situation.

I remember one raid at 2 in the morning while I was on night duty. One of my patients was seriously ill with scrub typhus and also was suffering from a neurosis caused by bombings. At the first sound of ack-ack he began to tremble. We were administering oxygen to him. I stood at his bedside holding his hand and assuring him there was no danger despite the fact that shrapnel was falling in every direction. If one piece had struck the oxygen tank probably both of us would have been killed.

Following the Buna campaign we were assigned to eight-hour duty. The hours, however, may vary according to the number of patients and available nursing staff. Night duty is always 12 hours, and lasts for a period of not longer than two weeks, as the heat of the tropics does not permit adequate sleep during the day. Night nurses in most areas try to sleep in grass huts where the temperature is from 10 to 30 degrees cooler. Many of our tents were unscreened for a time. While one sat at a packing box desk writing reports mosquitoes and about every other form of insect imaginable swarmed about, getting into the nose, ears and mouth and nearly drove one frantic. Repellant was used copiously as a preventive measure.

Our nurses have and will continue to carry on. They have seen the tortures of war, known fear, faced hardships and made many sacrifices; and in the midst of it all have had a little fun.

I don't believe there is one nurse who would exchange this experience for anything, nor is there one who could deny that her life has been enriched . . . We have been taught the true meaning of tolerance, resourcefulness, duty and faith; wealth far greater than earthly treasures. When our nurses face the grim reality of war and come through smiling, they have the satisfaction of a job well done.

The love of justice is, in most men, nothing more than the fear of suffering injustice. — (La Rochefoucauld)

A Big "If" in '44 Vote

Complications Result from Population Shift.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—If you are betting on the coming elections, whether with cash or wishful thinking, one thing to remember is that never before in recent years, has there been such a population shift in the United States and consequently a shift in voters. This applies to states, Congressional districts, counties and municipalities.

According to estimates of the Census Bureau (over the years, they have proved more accurate than any polls we have ever seen) the little states of Delaware and Rhode Island have been least affected by population changes. But wait. Delaware, with more than 22,000 men in the armed forces, has gained over 8,000 in population, for a net change of at least 30,000.

Rhode Island, with more than 60,000 men in the armed forces, has added about 14,250 to its population for a net change of nearly 75,000—about one-fourth the largest vote it ever cast in a senatorial or presidential race.

Of course these "population changes" don't mean, figure for figure, changes in the number of voters. The situation is actually so complex that the best mathematical political observers here admit off-the-record that they are pretty well stumped. The only thing they will agree on is that there are bound to be a lot of changes made.

New York state has more than a million men in service. Its total loss in population is only slightly less than that. Its men in the armed forces are predominantly of voting age. Its "gain" probably isn't nearly so high in the number of voters. The same applies to Pennsylvania, which has 850,000 men in the forces, but has only lost 625,000 in population. California, with around 600,000 men going to the wars, has gained more than a million in net population, the Census Bureau estimates.

Now consider that legal restrictions (residence, poll taxes, failures to register, educational barriers, etc.) are going to disqualify a great number of voters. If the result in many states and local districts isn't going to be utter confusion in the net votes, I'll start chewing ballots now.

Not Same Everywhere

In some states, as for example the Solid South (although even there there are exceptions), it may not make much difference. In states where the margin for Democrats or Republicans is usually not great, it may make all the difference in the world.

In addition, some fairly astute political observers here are estimating that the total November vote can't possibly be more than 37,000,000. I haven't talked to any one yet who thinks it can be more than 45,000,000. Elections have been won and lost on far less than half the differences in those estimates.

Some observers are saying that shifts in voters and voting restrictions may determine more races than whether a candidate is the old-line voters' choice or not.

Fewer Farm Horses

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—The supply of horses on farms declined during 1943 for the 29th consecutive year, according to a national survey. The number dropped from 9,675,000 head in 1942 to 9,330,000 at the beginning of 1944. The peak year was 1915 with 21,431,000.

Mules on farms slumped from 3,704,000 in 1942 to 3,559,000 last year, the 19th consecutive annual decline. Mule population was highest in 1925 with 5,918,000.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Pvt. Purkey On That Factory Off

DEAR SECRETARY ICKES:

I just seen in a paper where you think factories taken over or helped by the government in producing war supplies be gave to soldiers after the war and I am writing for particulars. Do I get a choice of factories or have to take my turn in line while they are distributed? Also if I do not like the one I get can I turn it in for something else?

* * *

I guess you mean all right but I do not quite get the idea clear. Take me for example. What do I know about running a factory, me being a gas station attendant before the war? Same Sergeant Mooney who used to be a baseball pitcher, and my buddy Joe Stigger, who was night club cashier, get home and as soon we get off the boat you hand us a factory and say, "It's yours, boys; I want you to be happy and carefree from now on?" So what comes next?

* * *

Personally I do not care for factories. I would feel about as glad to get one as if you gave me a blast furnace or a troop of circus elephants. I would rather have you give me a movie house or a nice gas station or maybe a delicatessen store.

* * *

I asked Mooney about it and he said he would not accept no factory. He thinks if the government wants to give him a business he would rather have a baseball club or maybe a race track. And Joe Stiggey is off this factory idea also. He will settle for a Times Square restaurant.

* * *

Now, Mr. Ickes, if you can't give me the things I just asked for I would accept a public utility plant on account of it would be fun to refuse light to certain brasshats. (There is a captain I would not even let have gas to cook with.)

* * *

I seen in your speech where you say America has got to "instill vitality into the spirit of free enterprise." Well now do not worry so much, Mr. Ickes, about that. When I get home from the war I will have plenty of free enterprise and will be full of vitality. I have been fighting for the America that has turned out pretty good through the spirit of free enterprise and am not worried like you about it. I think the boys will be as keen for it after a couple of years in foxholes as the politicians will be after a dozen years in nice warm public offices.

* * *

Thanks for the offer of a factory just the same.

Yours truly,

OSCAR PURKEY

P. S.—Sergeant Mooney says he would like to be given the Yankee stadium but will take the Dodgers ball park if he has to.

"The past year has dispelled the notion, born of earlier years in the war, that Germany was only master of the offensive. She has now shown herself equally master of the elastic evasion and withdrawal."—Berlin.

* * *

Elastic evasion and withdrawal? You would mean the "bums' rush" and the old time "take on the lam" stuff, would you, Adolf?

* * *

Hitler Has Words For It.

Are you too far gone to rally?
Is the situation drastic?
Are you fleeing up an alley?
It's evasion, quite elastic!

Are you in reverse and skidding?
Are you feeling kicks and belts, sir?
You're a superman, no kidding;
It's "withdrawal", nothing else, sir!

* * *

Maybe Hitler wants to be sure of his place in history as Master of the Elastic Scram.

Catty Remarks

By Truman Twill

Cats, as any dog lover will be glad to tell you at the drop of a dog biscuit are dumb. We've made a close study of T. Manville, the Twillery cat, and find ourselves in agreement for once.

T. Manville is not a lover of the great outdoors. He prefers to spend his time lolling around inside, on soft beds, in easy chairs, in the corner of a drawer, if he can find one open.

However, like all cats, he has a deep curiosity. He likes to step outside occasionally to inspect the birds, or perhaps just to sit on the front step and watch traffic.

This is where his inability to think things out and reach sharp conclusions plays him false. We report this, not to agree with the dog lovers who have their own apologies to make, but merely to add to the sum total of human knowledge about cats.

T. Manville, on a rainy day, will vault up on the table next to the window to take a gander at the weather. He will shudder delicately, in the way from his waxed whiskers down to the last hair on his twitching tail at the sight of that water. He likes rainy weather less than any other kind. It offends him.

But then, not believing his own eyes, T. Twill will saunter to the back door and paw the latch. When the door is opened, he will hold his tail in the crack to keep it from being shut and take a closeup gander. Sure enough it is raining, whereupon he will step back inside still shuddering.

He then will tramp to the front door and rattle the latch there. When he gets action, he repeats the procedure. It's raining at the front door, too. Whereupon, T. Manville calls off his bets and returns to his observation post by the window.

A half hour later, with the rain still coming down, he will go to the back door and then to the front door again to make sure it is really raining. If the Twillery had a side door, he would try that, too. This may go on, in the case of a long rain, all day and part of the night. It is a curious performance. He doesn't really want out. He just wants to make sure it is raining. We have asked him about that, point-blank.

T. Manville also makes a point of stopping by the kitchen several hundred times a day to see if the refrigerator door has opened itself. He will wait on the back porch by the hour on a nice day on the off chance a bird may stumble. He will open the cupboard door every time he stitch to make sure the can of sardines he knows is in there hasn't come open. Cats are dumb all right. They live and die without doing a day of work. All they do is wait for things to come their way. If T. Manville didn't help with this column, he wouldn't be worth the space he occupies.

AND LIKE IT.

All this leap year tradition is a pleasant fiction. The gal who really wants a man usually get him, in any year, and the man know it.—Decatur Herald.

No Ohio Post-War Farm Help Surplus Seen by Committee

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 21 — A special "committee of 25" reported today that Ohio farms could absorb, after the war, virtually all agricultural labor that migrated to industrial plants during the years of the conflict.

Using the current farm population as a base, the committee said a survey indicated about 15 per cent more could be added, and that this figure would exclude only a minute percentage of the men and women who quit the fields to make munitions.

The current population was not given, but Dr. J. I. Falconer, chairman of Ohio State university's department or rural economics, said it was esumated the farm population had declined about 15 per cent since 1939.

Industry, the "committee of 25" said in one of a series of 13 recommendations pointed toward the post-war period, must be prepared to retain those from the farms who will not be able to find a new place in agriculture.

Of those who have left the farm, Dr. Falconer said in an expansion of the report, about 50 per cent have gone into military service and the other 50 per cent into war plants. There is no evidence yet of any concentrated return to the soil, he added.

The committee, composed of agricultural experts from over the state, was born when a few Ohio farm leaders met informally a year ago to talk shop. Dean John F. Cunningham of Ohio State's college of agriculture is chairman.

Going beyond the manpower question, the committee report touched 12 other vital subjects. A summary of them, together with recommendations, follows:

Production and Distribution—What has been called "surplus" in the past too often has been the result of poor distribution and under-consumption. There is a need for greater efficiency in production and distribution so all people may be well fed, clothed and housed.

Water Conservation—Adequate water supply is essential to agriculture. Underground water levels, which now continue to recede, should be conserved and increased.

Soil Conservation—Land, although privately owned, is a public asset. Farm operators should exercise every opportunity to prevent erosion and induce greater infiltration of water through increased acreage of grass lands and protected forests.

Forestry—There is a necessity for development of farm woodlots and for publicly controlled programs of forest growth and utilization. Special emphasis should be placed on fire control.

Electricity—Electric power should be brought to every Ohio farm. This would improve not only the work program but also family living conditions.

Rural Health—More adequate rural health service and well-planned rural recreation would help establish and maintain a higher standard of living.

Cooperation—Ohio is a leading state in farmers' cooperatives and "we affirm the cooperative principle," which is one of working together.

Tenancy—Many Ohio farms are operated by tenants or renters. Long-term profits to both landlord and tenant are enhanced by providing good fences, buildings and suitable living quarters for tenants.

Credit—Agriculture must be assured of adequate long term and short term credit at the lowest rates possible, consistent with the risk involved.

Returning Soldiers—Local community groups must study the desires of returning soldiers and inaugurate plans for their future welfare.

Farm Ownership—Ownership of land is one of the cornerstones of American life. Ownership and operation of the same farm by succeeding generations of the same family are desirable and should be encouraged.

Relationships—Agriculture must maintain a close working relationship with labor, for the welfare of agriculture depends largely upon the purchasing power of labor, and labor can have no purchasing power without adequate employment. Likewise, agriculture must maintain a mutual understanding with industry, since neither can prosper without the other.

Members of the group, which calls itself the "Committee of 25," include the following:

John T. Brown, Columbus, director of the state department of agriculture; Joseph Fichter, Columbus, master of the Ohio State Grange; Perry Green, Columbus, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau; L. A. Kauffman, Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Wool Growers' association.

Ray T. Kelsey, Cleveland, editor of the Ohio Farmer; F. G. Ketner, Columbus, secretary of the Producers' Livestock Cooperative; H. C. Ramsower, Columbus, director of the Ohio agricultural extension service, and Edmund Secrest, Wooster, director of the Ohio agricultural experiment station.

STRIKE THREATENS TIRE PRODUCTION AT GOODYEAR

Entire Plant May Shut Down As Walkout Continues.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., April 21 — A mill room walkout threatened to halt tire production today at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's plant number one.

A company's spokesman reported the plant would be at a standstill within 24 hours if the men, members of the CIO United Rubber Workers of America, failed to return to work. The mill room supplies raw materials for the entire plant, he explained.

The company announced 110 workers or approximately one-third of the afternoon shift had walked out, while 56 workers or an estimated one-half of the night shift failed to report.

Paul Fuller, U. S. department of labor conciliator, declared he was informed 15,000 workers would be idle and most of the plant closed should the stoppage continue. He met with company and union officials in an attempt to settle the dispute.

A company spokesman said 36 mixers in the department where stock is prepared were ordered by the company not to return to work unless they would agree to follow company instructions on job methods.

Officials of the URWA contended the stoppage was provoked by the company's withdrawing time cards of the 36.

Former Dillinger Aid Given Prison Sentence

By The Associated Press

OALSAM LAKE, Wis., April 21 —Tommy Gannon, blustering sarcastic 49-year-old ex-convict and one-time associate of the John Dillinger gangsters, was to begin another prison sentence today—a 15 to 40-year term imposed yesterday after his conviction of bank robbery.

The diminutive Gannon, who completely ignored court decorum during his four-day trial as he conducted his own defense, was sent to Wisconsin state prison last night after being sentenced by Circuit Judge Carl H. Daley.

Gannon's final heckling of the judge, prosecutor, jury and spectators ended after his sentence when he told the court: "Thanks. Now you can retire to your chamber and blow out your corrupt brains."

The men who held the War, Navy and Air ministries in the old cabinet remained at their posts in the new government, as did the technician whom Badoglio had chosen to head the finance ministry. The other posts were divided among Italy's six political parties of the Liberation junta and some independents.

Attorney Charges FBI Taps Office Telephone

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21—Ira Chase Koehne, attorney for four defendants in the trial of 30 persons charged with seditious conspiracy, charged in district court today that his office telephone had been tapped and that he and his clients were being persecuted.

"Some of my clients have been shadowed for some time," Koehne told presiding Justice Edward C. Eicher. "My phone has been and still is tappped. What goes on in my office can be heard even when the telephone receiver is on its hook.

"That typifies the persecution to which the FBI and other subversive elements have subjected the defendants and attorneys in this case."

FURLOUGH SYSTEM

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 21—The New York Times in a dispatch from central Pacific army headquarters today said army officials soon will announce a limited schedule of furloughs for soldiers in that area on a percentage basis. The central Pacific command has been acutely aware that the inability to grant furloughs because of crowded transportation facilities has caused discontent, the Times reported.

Pre-war Holland exported ten per cent of its meat and 50 per cent of its eggs, cheese and butter.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH BECOMES 18 TODAY

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 21 — Blond, blue-eyed Princess Elizabeth, next in line to rule the vast British empire, came of reigning age today as she celebrated her 18th birthday.

Greetings from the far-flung outposts of the empire she expects to rule some day poured in on the young princess who, though still legally a minor for the next three years, became a counsellor of state empowered with others to act for her father, King George VI, in his absence. However, if at any time during the next three years she were to succeed to the throne, she would do so as queen regent with royal powers and no question of the necessity for a regency.

A birthday cake baked in the royal kitchen graced the table at a family luncheon attended by the king and queen and other members of the royal family.

The young princess' 18 years have been crowded with history. Within a year after the death of her grandfather, King George V, the abdication of her uncle, Edward VIII, brought her into the limelight as the likely future ruler of the British empire.

Belief Spreading That Russia Will Lead in Europe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There has been widespread acceptance of the startling thesis that Russia will emerge from the war as dominant power of the eastern hemisphere, and concrete evidence in support of this idea is accumulating as we enter the final stages of the conflict.

One indication of the trend is the manner in which numerous European countries are orienting their policies, in greater or less degree, toward Moscow. This is particularly noticeable in eastern and southeastern Europe. But it's by no means confined to that zone, for we even find France—as represented by the Committee of National Liberation and General De Gaulle in Algiers—going out of its way to make overtures to Russia.

Czechs Are Examples

A notable example of this tendency is provided by doughty little Czechoslovakia—early sacrifice on the altar of Hitlerism appeasement. One of the mile-stones in this trend was the signing of a pact of mutual assistance and post-war cooperation between the Soviet and Czechoslovakia last December. Then in February President Eduard Benes announced that Moscow and his country were working for a Slav alliance, including Poland, to secure peace in eastern Europe.

Pursuant to that we have an article by Dr. Benes in the May issue of Free World magazine in which he emphasizes the need of Slavic solidarity as a barrier against the Nazi and Fascist forces of reaction. The doctor is one of the world's distinguished statesmen and so merits attention when he says.

"I look on this war as an historic action to put a final stop to the pan-German drang nach osten (drive to the east). This war has been a vivid demonstration that there must be friendly and loyal collaboration among Poland, Czechoslovakia and Soviet Russia."

Dr. Benes maintains that "the future of the Slav countries is indissolubly linked to a fight for freedom on behalf of all Slavic peoples." He explains he doesn't mean that the Slavs should form a solid bloc, since a bloc excluding all other peoples would threaten them and woud constitute a new power in Europe.

Indirect emphasis was added to this article yesterday on the arrival of Jan Masaryk, deputy prime minister and foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, in New York from England. He declared his country trusts the Soviet Union implicitly regarding future relations between the two.

Fits Big Three Picture

Of course, Dr. Benes' declaration doesn't indicate weakening of the friendship among Czechoslovakia, America and Britain. Indeed, it may fit the truism that world peace depends on cooperation among the big three—America, Britain and Russia. However, the orientation towards Moscow is evident and it will be surprising if, among others, Poland, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Finland and Romania don't follow suit in due course.

Dr. Benes, who was a strong supporter of the League of Nations and was at one time president of its assembly, gives us a glimpse of a new Europe—a new alignment of nations. And what a change!

I spent some time in Czechoslovakia soon after its birth, and had the privilege of becoming acquainted with the great Dr. Thomas Masaryk, father of his country and its first president. The small state was trying to find its place in the sun, but even then it was headed for the trials which it now endures.

France was attempting to use Czechoslovakia as a bastion against hated Germany; Russia was just emerging from its revolution; Germany was down but not out; Britain and France dominated Europe. Now we are entering a new Europe in which the orientation is toward Moscow.

Seniors Present Play by Miss Foreman

as throughout the entire play, the audience is treated to a sincere interpretation of philosophy, loyalty and an earnest endeavor to give the best in their chosen field by the little colony of actors and actresses. When Act III opens near the close of the season and with presentation of the final production only hours away, the Hollywood star, through an understanding director, is made to feel her role, not only for the stage role but in real life as well, and the story comes to a happy ending including wedding bells for Judy and also her understanding friend, keeper of Seagull Inn.

Answer Curtain Call

Members of the cast and Miss Foreman and Miss Coffman were brought back on the stage for a bow with the final curtain.

Miss Foreman has dedicated her play to the oasis, assistant directors, and all persons, especially those whose work has kept them behind the scenes and without whose assistance she says no play would have been a success throughout the 24 years she has been directing plays at Harding. "Without Miss Coffman, L. E. Welch, Mr. Bryans, and all who helped throughout all the weeks last night's play just couldn't have been produced," she said in discussing the performance. Mr. Welch, superintendent of the city school custodians, assisted with the stage scenery and setting.

A variety of roles for girls ranged from Mrs. Lawrence Pendleton, dowager and New England aristocrat, to Sunday Sylvester, 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Abby Sylvester, keeper of Seagull Inn, and for the boys the roles ranged from Captain Elkanah Cobb, an old sea captain and keeper of the lighthouse to Sam Sylvester, reporter for the Beacon. Stewart Young, cast for the role of "Jeff Carr" was unable to remain in the play because of illness and was replaced by Bill Williams, originally cast for one of the twins. John McKenney, who appeared last year when this year's senior class presented the junior play, stepped into Williams' shoes.

Networks Arrange For Political Conventions

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 21 — The technical setup for the quadrennial broadcasts from the two national political conventions in Chicago this summer is to be as nearly a combined affair as possible. Thus, less war-scarce apparatus will be required to feed the networks.

Arrangements provide for a pickup from the floor through 50 or more microphone stations in a united public address and radio system.

Microphones on the speakers' stand will be held to a minimum, these together with the floor microphones to feed into a common amplifier panel. From there, each network will have its separate panels to supply its own stations.

However, the networks will use their own microphone booths for commentators and descriptive cutins as heretofore.

Talks tonight: NBC—7:30 Rep. Mike Mansfield on "Lend-Lease to China;" NBC 10:45 Sen. Jos. H. Ball on "After Election Problems;" CBS N. Y. state network only 11:05. James A. Farley replying to Gov. Dewey's soldier-vote stand.

KIWANIANS HEAR TALK BY COUNTY PROSECUTOR

Problems of Delinquency Subject of James E. Reed

James E. Reed, Marion county prosecutor, spoke on "Problems of Delinquency" at the luncheon meeting of Kiwanis club Thursday at Hotel Harding. Mr. Reed, speaking from his observations in the prosecutor's office, stated that the so-called delinquency of today, while on the increase, has always been present and much the same treatment must be used to overcome it now as in the past.

The three main factors contributing to juvenile delinquency, as given by the speaker, are poor home environment, increasing number of working mothers and the present unrest due to war conditions. The necessity of individual responsibility to the boys and girls was stressed. He said the community as a whole should consider whether adequate recreational facilities have been provided for the young people. He illustrated his talk with cases from his own experiences as prosecutor.

It was announced that the Marion club members will go to Mt Vernon next Monday noon to take charge of the program of the newly organized Kiwanis club there. Flight Lt. Fred V. H. Collins of the RAF, stationed in Mari... and a ... ember ... the local club, will be the speaker.

Yesterday's program was in charge of Max Birnbaum, chairman of the underprivileged children committee. Guests were W. Dickinson and A. Anthony of Cincinnati, E. P. Howard of Mansfield, J. T. Enright of Huntington Ind., and J. T. Barger.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The war stories I like best, Judge, are the ones by the special writers overseas who live right with our troops. They give us a better idea of how our men react to things going on over there and back here at home."

"I agree with you, Sam. I never miss one of those stories in the papers or magazines. And there's one thing those writers seem to agree on no matter where they are stationed with our men...and that is that the men who have left their homes and families to go away and fight this war don't want to come back and find that prohibition has been put over on them while they were away...either nationally or locally. They have heard about the attempts being made and they resent it bitterly."

"I agree with them, Judge, even though I don't happen to drink myself. Furthermore, I don't think it's fair for us at home to be making any major changes while 10,000,000 of our fighting men are away and have no chance to express their opinions."

Admiral Nimitz asks this of you

"The average American finds it difficult to believe that an unnecessary gallon of oil burned in the home furnace, or an uneaten potato thrown into the garbage pail, or an electric light left on in a closet can have any effect on a naval battle fought half a world away. And yet, unless we Americans cut down the staggering total of these small wastes we may not always be able to throw enough men and materials into each battle to insure the most swift and decisive victory.

"Today we are faced with the brutal fact that American resources are limited, that we are already reaching that limit—that additional supplies of such vital war materials as fuels, fats, paper and tin must come out of the things we habitually waste at home. Fortunately, fighting waste is something every man, woman and child can do for America. And we who need so badly what you can give us ask that you enlist in the battle against waste—now."

COMMANDER IN CHIEF, U. S. PACIFIC FLEET

The men in the fighting forces themselves have set the most striking example of what can be done by fighting waste. So you are actually being asked to match in your home, office and factory the care now exercised by the men who are fighting for you.

Perhaps you've been too hurried or worried to give it much thought. Of course, you know better than to raise a window to cool a room—to leave your refrigerator door open too long—to burn valuable waste paper—to let a faucet drip or the drafts of the furnace stay open—to use up gasoline and tires for pleasure driving—or light the burner of your range before the pot is on—or all the other thousand and one little things that add up to an appalling waste.

Perhaps you just need some one person in your home to remind you each time you waste these precious resources that your country now needs so badly. Your small son or daughter could perform no greater service to America than to take over this policing job. If you have no children, you yourself should take it on your own shoulders. Start now!

HOW YOU CAN FIGHT WASTE IN YOUR HOME

Follow these four simple principles:

1. Conserve everything you use.
2. Buy only what is necessary.
3. Salvage what you don't need.
4. Share what you have.

MAKE YOUR HOME AN ARSENAL FOR VICTORY!

FIGHT WASTE!

Second Openers on Tap Today; Batting Showing Improvement

The Associated Press

Brooklyn's perennial spring song, "Leave Us Go Root for the Dodgers, Roger," echoes through the damp tunnels of the BMT subway again today as the Flatbush flock comes home to see what has been making the New York Giants tick and the other clubs change partners and circle around for the second openers.

St. Louis gets its first gander at the unbeaten Brownies when they take on the equally spotless Chicago White Sox and the Yankee stadium opens up for the first time this season to present the world champs and Washington, the experts' 1-2 pennant picks. Cleveland entertains Detroit at home and the venerable Connie Mack sends out his A's for home front inspection in a tilt with Boston.

In addition to the Ebbets field inaugural, other national league "turnabout" openers will find St. Louis at Chicago, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at Boston.

More pitching battles are indicated all along the line although the hitters staged a partial comeback in yesterday's series finals. Despite the boost given by the Giants' 10-8 win over Boston, the records show an average total of less than six runs per game were scored in the first 20 scheduled tilts.

Wynn in Top Form

Early Wynn couldn't have been better if he'd been pitching all summer than he was in blanking the A's with two singles for Washington's 5-0 win. Dick Siebert and Buddy Hall were the Philadelphia "spoilers." The Sens put on a weird base-running exhibition in the fifth when Roberto Ortiz slid into third base on a triple to find Stan Spence waiting for him. Stan had to leave and was tagged out in a run down.

Sigmund Jakucki, 31-year-old righthander from Galveston, Texas, who holds an army medical discharge, broke into the American league win column for the first time by hurling the Browns to an 8-5 edge over Detroit although he allowed nine well-spaced hits. Vern Stephens helped him along with a double and single that drove in three runs.

Fritz Ostermueller was even more liberal than Jakucki but also lasted all the way in pitching Brooklyn to an 8-2 decision over the Phils. The veteran lefthander allowed 13 hits but his mates clawed four Blue Jays for 14, including four by Augie Galan. Fourteen losers were left stranded.

Giants On Spree

The home run power has been concentrated in the New York Giants who lashed out with circuit clouts by Mel Ott, Joe Medwick and Ernie Lombardi again yesterday in their 10-8 slugfest win over Boston. Medwick had a double and two singles in addition to his homer as the Giants swept the series. Cliff Melton, Mel Ott's pitching nominee, was knocked out in the ninth when the Braves rallied.

Tomas De La Cruz, a stylish Cuban from Havana, did the best hurling job in the National in Cincinnati's 2-1 verdict over Chicago. The rookie, who was the mainstay of the Syracuse staff a year ago, hooked up with Les Fleming in a tight duel that was broken up by Ray Mueller's smash into left with the bases loaded in the ninth.

St. Louis made it two in a row over Pittsburgh but the Pirates belted Morton Cooper out of the box before succumbing to reliefer George Munger, 5-3. First Sacker Ray Sanders' two doubles, driving across a pair of runs, and Emil Verban's three singles led the Red Birds' attack.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Tom De La Cruz, Reds—Rookie Cuban made successful major league debut by holding Chicago Cubs to five hits in Cincinnati's 2-1 win.

Augie Galan, Dodgers—Veteran outfielder collected four hits in four times at bats as Brooklyn trimmed Phillies, 8-2.

Joe Medwick, Giants — Clouted homer, double and two singles in New York's third straight over Boston Braves by 10-8 score.

Ray Sanders, Cardinals — First sacker batted in two runs of St Louis' 5-3 margin over Pittsburgh with brace of doubles.

Sigmund Jakucki, Browns—Earned first big league victory in scattering nine Detroit singles as St. Louis won his third in a row, 8-5.

Early Wynn, Senators—Pitched day's only shutout, a 5-0 blanking of the Athletics, whose only hits were singles by Dick Siebert and Irv. Hall.

JOE BEGGS TO PITCH FOR REDS AGAINST PITTSBURGH TODAY

Cincinnati Hurler To Report for Duty with Navy in Few Days.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 21—Lieut. (JG) Joseph Beggs was scheduled to pitch his first and last major league baseball game of the season today as the Cincinnati Reds moved in to play the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The righthanded Redleg will report for active Navy duty within the next few days. He was to be opposed by Rip Sewell, the "blooper thrower."

The Reds took the rubber game of a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs yesterday, winning the game and the series 2 to 1.

Tomas De La Cruz, the rhumba dancer from Havana via Syracuse and the International league, pitched his first game in the big time and turned in a five-hit performance.

De La Cruz battled on even terms with Les Fleming, a 20-year-old Los Angeles boy, until the ninth inning. Eric Tipton opened the inning with a single; Eddie Miller doubled; Chuck Aleno, who replaced Steve Mesner at third, was walked and Ray Mueller shot a single to left, ending the game.

The Reds scored a run in the first on a walk, a sacrifice, an error and Frank McCormick's long fly but the Cubs tied things up in the seventh on singles by Don Johnson and Phil Cavarretta, a force play and an outfield fly.

General Manager Warren Giles of the Reds attempted an experiment to prove the '44 rubber-core baseball is livelier than the balata model. He bounced a half dozen of each on the concrete of the Reds' dressing room and, sure enough, the new ball has more hop.

But the players were unconvinced. They pointed to the record in the first three games. A total of eight hits were made by both clubs opening day; nine the second day and 11 yesterday. In addition, the run totals for both teams in the three contests were nine—three each day.

PRO GRID EXPANSION DELAYED DURING WAR

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, April 21 — The owners of 11 national football league clubs, having ruled out expansion until after the war, today looked into the possibilities of contracting their circuit to escape the difficulties of an unwieldy program.

The professional league yesterday tabled five applications for membership from four cities. These applications may be revived at any time the league wishes, leaving the road open for expansion to the west coast if it seems desirable or necessary to meet competition. The club owners made it clear, however, that they don't plan to increase their circuit until after the war.

The unsuccessful bidders for franchises, whose $25,000 forfeits were returned, were Capt. Ernie Nevers and Anthony Morabito of San Francisco, Abe Watner of Baltimore, Sam Cordovano of Buffalo, and an unnamed Los Angeles man.

Throughout the first two days of the meeting, there has been a strong undercurrent of rumors that mergers such as last year's Philadelphia-Pittsburgh combination, might be the league's solution to its schedule problems. The new Boston Yankees, with little player talent in sight, have indicated they would merge with another club, provided all games would be played in Boston. Otherwise the only support for the rumors was found in the club owners' optimism against the possibility of ending the meeting today.

Any such changes must be made today before the 1944 schedule is drawn up.

At yesterday's session, the league passed the rules changes proposed by the rules committee, including a ban on out-of-bounds kickoffs and permission for coaches to direct their teams from the bench, and made several changes in the constitution and by-laws.

The RAF raid that destroyed Germany's Mohne and Eder dams in May, 1943, was planned with engineering exactness a year in advance.

BOWLING RESULTS

Wednesday night's bowling was featured by a singles score of 216, rolled by Dorothy Maskill of the Ladies All-Star league, one of the highest registered by Marion women bowlers this season. Other high singles in the same league were Eva Hinze's 189 and Grace Gunder's 185 and 182.

In the Osgood league Coutts marked up the highest single, 241. Other more than 200 scores in the same league were McRill 212, Yazel 207, Myers 225 and 204, Lowery 231 and Matthews 202.

20,000 TO SEE TRIBE MEET DETROIT IN LAKEFRONT STADIUM

Cleveland Mayor To Pitch First Ball as Indians Open at Home.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 21 — A crowd of 20,000 is expected to watch Mayor Frank J. Lausche toss the first pitch in the Indians' home opener against Detroit today.

Beaten in their first—and only to date—league game with Chicago, 3 to 1, the Tribe will enter the Lakeside stadium barely favorites to take Steve O'Neill's Tigers in a pitching duel. The Detroiters lost their first three games to the St. Louis Browns.

Allie Reynolds will start on the mound for Cleveland, opposing Frank (Stub) Overmire, Tiger southpaw. Reynolds was league strikeout king last year.

Manager Lou Boudreau announced Russ Lyon would replace Jim McDonnell behind the plate for the Indians. Lyon swings from the right side, whereas McDonnell is a left-handed batter.

Boudreau indicated he did not plan to use Jeff Heath, outfielder and mainstay hitter of the Tribe, who reported to the Tribe in Chicago Monday.

Cleveland's mayor, a former minor-leaguer himself, has been dusting off his good right arm for the initial pitch. At the home opener last year he wound up and hurled a curve that broke down the center of the plate.

Meanwhile, Ray Mack, second baseman who the Indians have been hoping would leave his war job at Thompson Products Co., declared he definitely would not return to baseball. He requested permission of his selective service board to play ball in his spare time, but board officers ruled he must devote all available time to the war effort if he is to retain his 2-B classification.

Lloyd Marshall Favored To Beat Jake LaMotta

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 21—Lloyd Marshall remains an 8 to 5 favorite to defeat Jake LaMotta in their 10-round bout scheduled for the arena tonight, despite the westerner's difficulty in pairing down to the specified 161 pounds.

Johnny Rogers, Marshall's manager who put up $5,000 to guarantee his fighter's weight, is optimistic about the weighing-in.

"He'll make it, all right," Johnny said, "and still be more than strong enough to win off by himself."

Both managers yesterday announced cessation of further drill before the fight and LaMotta went downtown to rest comfortably.

But Marshall journeyed to a local gymnasium, to go through the equivalent of a ten-round bout. He sparred. He punched the bag. He shadow-boxed. All, said Rogers, in the interests of keeping that weight down to 161.

Dutch Schultz Victor Over Davis in Mat Show

Dutch Schultz was victor over "Dizzy" Davis in a two-hour main go at the wrestling show last night at the Armory. Schultz brought "Dizzy" down first with a body slam and body press in 12 minutes. Again he brought Davis crashing in 10 minutes with a chin buster and body press.

In a one-hour semi-final match Joe Maiche was declared the winner when Red Dawson, his opponent, was disqualified for stepping on Maiche's throat. Before Dawson was disqualified Maiche won a fall in 11 minutes with a drop kick and body press. A half-hour one-fall event in which Frankie Hart and Joe Wolfe were contestants ran the full time without a fall and was called a draw.

MINNEAPOLIS OFF TO WHIRLWIND START

By The Associated Press

The Minneapolis Millers, picked by American association baseball writers to finish last this season, were off to an auspicious start today, thanks to the three-hit pitching of Otis Clark and the 13-hit attack which gave them a 15 to 2 win over the Kansas City Blues last night in their delayed opener.

In the night's only other contest Louisville squared things with Columbus, shutting out the Red Birds 4 to 0 as Ollie Byers matched Clark's performance with another three hitter. Paid attendance was only 738.

The Toledo-Indianapolis and St. Paul-Milwaukee games were postponed because of inclement weather.

The Millers hopped on Ken Gables, Kansas City starter, for three runs in the third inning, picked up three more in the fifth when he was relieved by Don Hendrickson, added one in the sixth, and then slammed eight more across in the ninth.

The Blues, who committed five errors, notched an unearned run in the sixth and got another in the ninth on right fielder Stan Platek's home run.

Byers, a 20-game winner from Scranton, Pa., allowed only two Columbus runners past first base. Johnny Wyrostek, Red Bird right fielder, tripled in the fourth and center fielder George Stumpf, after walking, reached third on second baseman Jack Burman's single.

The Colonels amassed all their runs in the fifth with five safeties off Jack Creel, then were held hitless the last three and two-thirds innings by southpaw Arthur Lopatka.

TURKS HALT CHROME SHIPMENTS TO NAZIS

By The Associated Press

ANKARA, April 20—(Delayed)—Turkish chrome shipments to Germany and her allies will be halted at 7 p. m. tomorrow in response to allied requests

Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu announced the government's decision to the national assembly today, explaining the action was being taken in the light of Turkey's position as an ally of Britain.

He said formal requests that the chrome shipments be halted had been received April 14 from the British and American governments The notes, he added, said Turkey henceforth would be treated as a neutral rather than an ally if she failed to comply.

(Dispatches from London said it was estimated there that Turkey's action would deprive Germany of at least half of her supplies of chrome, essential in the hardening for armor plate and other war goods)

STANDS PAT ON SERVICE ACT

House Indicates Army and Navy Demands Will Not Be Met.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21—A "try-to-get-it" attitude was the reaction of the house military committee today to a joint Army-Navy-Marine commission request for labor draft legislation.

The joint recommendation followed by less than five hours the committee's report on draft deferments and 4-Fs. Briefly, the committee held that existing law was adequate to allow government agencies to force into limited military service 4-Fs and men between 38 and 45 who refuse to take jobs in essential industry when jobs are available.

The committee long has opposed compulsory labor legislation and without its backing such legislation cannot reach the house floor

"We have spoken and we meant what we said," Chairman May (D-Ky) declared when asked if the joint recommendation might persuade the committee to alter its position.

No Action This Year

Rep. Costello (D-Calif), who headed the subcommittee that made the deferment study, predicted there would be no labor legislation this year

"The problem can be handled without legislation," he asserted. "Selective service can induct men now if they won't take the jobs they are needed for. A little action along that line would have very good results"

A Republican viewpoint was voiced by Rep. Harness of Indiana, who said

"There is no necessity for drafting anybody except for military service. Why don't the Army and the Navy cooperate in trying to place in industry the 75,000 to 80,000 men discharged every month from service and able to work in industry? Less than five per cent of these men are going back to their jobs"

Cites Real Problem

Harness declared the problem was "not one of manpower but of unemployment," and said approximately 600,000 allocations are pending throughout the county for unemployment compensation benefits.

"This, and the fact that industry is employing 1,000,000 fewer men today than a year ago, make it apparent that the problem is not one of finding men but of finding jobs for the available men," he added.

After warning of a manpower crisis which may imperil the biggest military project in history, the Army-Navy-Maritime announcement said labor draft legislation was needed urgently to keep vital war plants staffed with replacements for workers sent to war Most of the 1,390,000 men to be taken into the armed services during the rest of this year, the announcement said, "must be drawn from vital industries."

The plan recommended would provide for voluntary recruitment of labor for draft-stricken war plants, and that failing, for resort to the principle of national service

POULTRY CEILING PRICES TO GO UP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21—The office of price administration today increased the ceiling price of poultry at all sales levels by 1 8 cents a pound, effective immediately and continuing through the month of April.

The new revisions approved by Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson, also provide a program of increases for May and June and for January through June of 1945.

OPA said the over-all changes would boost the price of poultry to the public an average of two-thirds of a cent a pound over the period of one year.

The increase in May of this year will be 2 2 cents a pound over present levels and in June one cent over present levels. Ceiling prices that have been in effect up to now will be reestablished in July and will continue in effect through December, 1944. In January of 1945, the revised schedule goes into effect again, with an increase of one half a cent a pound that month, one cent in February, and 1.4 cents in March. In April, May and June of 1945 the increases will be the same as in those months of this year.

Lima Man Faces Old W. Va. Murder Charge

By The Associated Press

HINTON, W. Va., April 21—Lee Gore, gray-haired Negro accused of a long-forgotten crime in Summers county, wept on the witness stand today as he told of the Christmas eve slayings of Tommy Agee Jr., in 1912.

After hearing the 68-year-old defendant's testimony and statements by Cpl. S. C. Ballard, Magistrate Kirk Heatwole ordered Gore held for action of the grand jury May 10.

Gore's attorney, E. C. Eagle, said he would not make application for bail.

Gore was returned here last week from Lima, O., where for 31 years he had lived in respectable obscurity under the alias of Tom Mann.

Only a short time before a tip-off came to state police headquarters at Charleston concerning Mann's true identity, Gore had been retired after a quarter of a century's service with a steel foundry.

The program consisted of moving pictures of bird and animal life in and around Marion county shown by O. H. Neimeyer, state game warden and several musical numbers presented by the Glenwood "Hot Shots" a "hill-billy" band composed of mothers in the organization. Mrs. Tom Coon was in charge of the social hour.

It was the third successive day the Eighth Air Force had sent an armada of almost 2,000 bombers and fighters over western Europe and brought up approximately 8,000 the total number of sorties flown by allied planes in that time.

American Marauders and Havocs with an escort of RAF Dominion and allied Spitfires hammered military objectives in northern France today.

LITTLE BUYING URGE SHOWN

Some Investment Demands, However, Helps Prices Keep Level.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 21 — A little more investment demand helped the stock market keep its balance today although the purchasing urge generally was lacking.

There was some nibbling here and there on the idea unsettlement possibly resulting from the forthcoming invasion had been pretty well discounted by the recent reaction.

Small fractional advances appeared in most departments after a mixed opening mix, with dealings among the shares in the past several months, trends were moderately steady near the fourth hour.

Attracting mild support were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Texas Co., Sunray Oil, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Kennecott, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Allied Chemical, General Electric, International Telephone, and Consolidated Edison.

CONTRACT BUYING HELPS GRAIN PRICES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 21—Buying of deferred (or contracts by a leading commission house, believed to be operating for commercial interests, imparted moderate strength to that grain today after the market had sold-off in the early trading. Despite the recovery, prices were not able to set or leave the previous close.

Wheat tended to follow rye, slumping during the first half hour, and then coming back to round yesterday's finish late in the session. Trading in the bread cereal was light. Oats showed comparative firmness throughout the day as more wet weather in the midwest further delayed seeding of spring oat

War Jobs Lure Boys from Newspaper Routes

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 21—The lure of war jobs has caused a shortage of newspaper carriers, Smith Witter of the Canton Repository told the Ohio circulation managers at their annual convention here yesterday.

A report showed Ohio carrier boys sold $96,187,069 worth of 10-cent war stamps from Dec. 7, 1941, until last April 12, to rank the state third in the nation.

In the ancient Roman calendar, April was the second month of the year.

Congress Hears About Ohio "Magazine Lady"

WASHINGTON, April 21—Congress heard yesterday about Mrs. Ernest McGraner, the Athens, Ohio, "magazine lady."

Representative Jenkins (R-Ohio) said in a speech that Mrs. McGraner meets every troop train passing through Athens to give the soldiers magazines, stamped post cards and other things.

Living near the station where every train stops for water and coal, Mrs. McGraner began her unusual activity because she wanted to do something for the war, Jenkins said. At first, she collected magazines from neighbors, but now she receives scores every day from persons throughout the country.

Jenkins said Mrs. McGraner receives word of approaching troop trains from telegraph operators at nearby stations and meets the trains regardless of the hour.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

OF COURSE you may open the chimney, Roderick," I told my eager young nephew, and when he had set down his burdens, Junior and I watched him with the concentration which each person in the secret gives to the working of the elaborately contrived mechanism governing the opening of the door in the big attic chimney.

When he had swung the door wide, he picked up his bag of vegetables and the handled kettle he had been carrying and taking them through, set them down again while he waited for Junior and me to come through the opening.

"Are you going to close the chimney, now?" I asked. "We shall be down there only a few minute."

"But Auntie Madge, don't you remember, you and Grandpa Spencer said 'Never leave that secret door open, even for a minute'

Breach of Faith

I hoped my tell-tale tare did not reveal that a little while before I had committed that breach of faith, and I made my answer quick and emphatic.

"Yes, yes, indeed! Close it at once!" I said. Junior already had switched on the lights outlining the steps, and we went down them, single file until we stood in front of the door leading into the chamber my father had constructed with such secrecy after the discovery of our two hundred year old "smuggler's stairway."

"Who's going to give the knocks, Mums?" Junior asked anxiously.

"One of you boys, of course," I said, and Junior said to his cousin with poorly concealed eagerness, 'Shall we toss for it?"

"Toss, nothing!" Roderick answered. "I won the chimney, didn't I? What's the use of wasting time? You do the knocking."

Growing In Character

"Thanks a lot old kid," my son answered heartily, while I smiled at Dickey's nephew, who, when he was younger, did not always show a fair spirit, but who has been growing steadily in spirit and mind as well as body.

Junior lifted his hand, and with a precision which denoted long practice—I guessed upon the bath door—gave three short knocks, waited while he counted five in a whisper, then gave three more short knocks, counted five again, gave the final three knocks, and a second later Hugh Grantland flung open the door.

"Well!" he ejaculated, his eyebrows lifting in surprise, "the Grahams bearing gifts!"

"Perfectly harmless, I assure you," I said. "Now if you'll excuse us for just a minute or two, the boys and I will stow these things away. No, you may not help, for you do not know where things go. You may watch, if you wish, for you may have to keep house down here."

From the bunk where Lee Chow was lying came a plaintive "I would like to watch, too, Hugh, help me up, please."

Guests Watch

Hugh opened his lips to demur, then thought better of it, and helped the frail old Chinese to his feet. But he kept a supporting hold on his arm while the boys and I put the butter, milk, cream, eggs, bread, bacon and ham into the refrigerator, stowed the potatoes, onions and turnips in the compartment below it, set the pots of herbs on a low shelf, put the beets, carrots and leeks into the window box filled with sand and pushed it under a projecting cupboard, and finally piled the fruit into a large empty basket standing on the table.

"If you want other fruit juices in the refrigerator, you'll find cans of them in one of the cupboards," I said when we had finished. "Now, let us all sit down and renew acquaintanceship. You remember the boys don't you, Hugh, and you, Lee Chow?"

"I do now," Hugh said, shaking hands heartily with the boys. "But I'm not sure I would have known them if I had met them on the street by myself. You have grown so unconsciously, you know."

"Junior, Roderick," Lee Chow said softly, tenderly, as if he were savoring the words. "I would have known your faces and eyes anywhere, even if you had had long grey beards. You were very good to me in the old days."

His thin, trembling hands were outstretched to them, and their eager young hands closed upon them, while their cheeks mantled with crimson—from sheer embarrassment, I knew.

"It's awful good to see you back, sir," Junior said, and Roderick added, 'You bet it is, sir." Then, at a potent stab from their social consciences, they dropped Lee Chow's hands and turned to Hugh.

"And we're mighty glad to see you, too, sir," Junior said in an agony of embarrassment, and Roderick repeated the words after him.

"Lee Chow and I are very glad to be welcomed," he said, with a tone and manner that set the boys at their ease again. "And now, suppose we sit down and hold a council of war—if there are seats enough," he added, looking around the room.

"If you will help me back to my bunk again," Lee Chow said, "I can talk and listen just as well from there. And one of the boys can sit on the foot of my bunk. That will leave three chairs."

"Exactly," Hugh said, assisting the old man back to the bunk. Junior gave a significant nod to Roderick, and his cousin edged over to the bunk for his "turn" in the privileges of this expedition. Then Hugh put me into the easiest chair, took a large one himself, and gestured Junior to a small but equally comfortable one.

Then he turned to me.

"I want to ask you a question before we discuss anything," he said. "Is there any reason why Lee Chow and I can not remain right where we are from this minute until after your father comes here from New York?"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Child Ills in Old Age

Second childhood is a graphic phrase which refers in common parlance only to the mental habits of the very old. There is a macabre ring to the word second in that connection—repetitions in life are too often repugnant. A child toddling and lurching across the floor in its first attempts to walk is charming; not so in second childhood with his last attempts to walk.

I say second childhood means particularly the mental characters of the period. But there is also a curious repetition of the physical ailments of the young in old age; it is often forgotten by physicians that old people are susceptible to some of the diseases particularly likely to be found in children. To name only two—whooping cough and appendicitis I have frequently repeated in this column the clinical aphorism—"If Johnny brings whooping cough home from school who in the household is most likely to get it."

Appendicitis is particularly a disease of the young. If you were to investigate the hospital records of a thousand cases of appendicitis and classified them on the basis of the age of the patient alone, you would find that about 750 were under the age of 30, and of these 250 were under the age of 10. The incidence declines very rapidly after the age of 30. This is because the appendix atrophies, especially the lymphatic, or tonsillar-like tissues of which it is so largely composed at birth and by the age of 10 it is a mere stump in most people.

Dr. A. E. Heitzler examined a thousand appendices at all ages and found that of those recovered from persons over the age of 40 that 75 per cent were so atrophied that there was hardly anything left to infect, so that infection by germs and consequent appendicitis is a very remote possibility. But that 25 per cent of the population does go on to old age with its appendix lymphatic tissue more or less intact and with the further factor of the reduced resistance to germs which occurs in elderly people so that they again become liable to appendicitis.

Since gallstones occur so frequently in old people (a recent series of reported autopsies on people over 80 showed that 90 per cent of them harbored gallstones) an acute stomach ache in an elderly person is almost invariably put down to gallstone colic when quite often it is appendicitis.

The diagnosis is further confused in that doctors always feel that a fever should go with appendicitis. They get it in young people, but the old notably are sluggish with temperature response, so their appendicitis is likely to go without fever, and hence is overlooked. But the appendicitis of old people is a good example of second childhood.

Another is the diet of the aged. One great mistake in the medical management of the aged is to let them select their own food which they do on the basis of the condition of their teeth, selecting the foods they can chew, and on the basis of previous tastes, and somewhat on the pocketbook. In any family circle great attention is paid to selecting the diet of the child, but it is equally important to select and insist on the diet of the aged. Here, since I have knocked the indiscriminate use of concentrated vitamins on so many occasions, let me say that such vitamins should be given as a routine to the aged.

There is a new specialty rising in medicine—geriatrics—the management of the troubles of old age, which should throw much needed light on these subjects. The life expectancy of a baby born in 1900 was on the average 40 years, but in 1944 it is closed to 65 years, so we have an increasingly large aged population to care for.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, April 22

A FAIRLY moderate opening for progress and progress is shown by the predominant stellar aspects. It is a time for striving toward cherished hopes and wishes, in relation to private as well as business progress. The effort may be based on sound plan ideas and applied energy, promising fairly enduring returns. But there may be some delay or by other circumstances to be conquered by perseverance, plus high pressure from those in power.

Those whose birthday it is may have fair progress and productiveness during the year, with returns according to the persistence industry and diligence exercised. There may be solid foundations with enduring rewards for future comfort and security. Resist doubtful demands from those higher up and keep alert to peculiar or tricky lines or strategies. Be prudent with funds.

A child born on this day may have much sturdy ability and fortitude and should make worthwhile progress by its own efforts and shrewd vision, as well as a measure of good luck.

In the Plymouth colony, the governor required each incoming boat to bring one cow for every five colonists to relieve a severe milk shortage.
